

I can do little to comfort you other than share my belief with you.

I hope it helps a little.

How to help

When a loved one's in pain that won't go away

What do you do? What do you say?

A tablet, a drink, injection or spray

What medicine will help them today?

Your life's full of questions. Is there more you can do

To ease their discomfort, to help them get through?

You give medication but is it enough

To make them feel better, stop feeling so rough?

You don't know the answers.

Their pain you can't share.

All you can do

Let them know that you're there

You care.

Words written by Naomi Stevens
01442 384971 - card@naomistevens.co.uk